HUN LINES ARE ROLLED UP BY THE ADVANCING BRITISH

Entire Front of Enemy in Picardy is Being Crushed

Haig's Forces Rushing Forward With Sustained Power

Vital Positions on and Beyond Hindenburg Line Are Taken by Allies

Combes Among the Army Centers from Which Huns Have Been Driven

Peronne and Ham Within Grasp of Advancing British

(By Associated Press War Editor)

Moving forward with sustained power British armies east and southeast of Arras appear to have crushed clear through the Hindenburg line. Dispatches received today seem to indicate that now they have begun to "roll up" the German forces on the front to which the enemy is retreating along the entire Picardy front.

Bullecourt, which was on the Hindenburg line, was taken this morning. Hendecourt-Les-Cagnicourt to the northeast of Bullecourt also has fallen before Field Marshal Haig's men. South of Hendecourt and slightly to the east, Rencourt has been captured by the advancing British. East of Arras, astride the Scarpe, further gains are reported.

The Drocourt-Queant "switch line" now is within striking distance. Further south the British have taken the town of Combes, where there was terrific fighting during the German retreat a year ago last March.

West of Peronne the British have captured the town of Clerf, and they have crossed the Somme south of Peronne.

Along the line further south which is held by the British the night passed without change. There were counter attacks by the Germans against the French between the Ailette river and the Aisne river but these were repulsed by the French who hold positions east of Pasy, which is less than two miles northwest of Soissons.

Along the front from the Somme south to the Noyon region and thence east to the Ailette, a sector which is vitally important at present the enemy appears to have checked the French until he can extricate his forces from the perilous position in the salient between the Somme and the Oise.

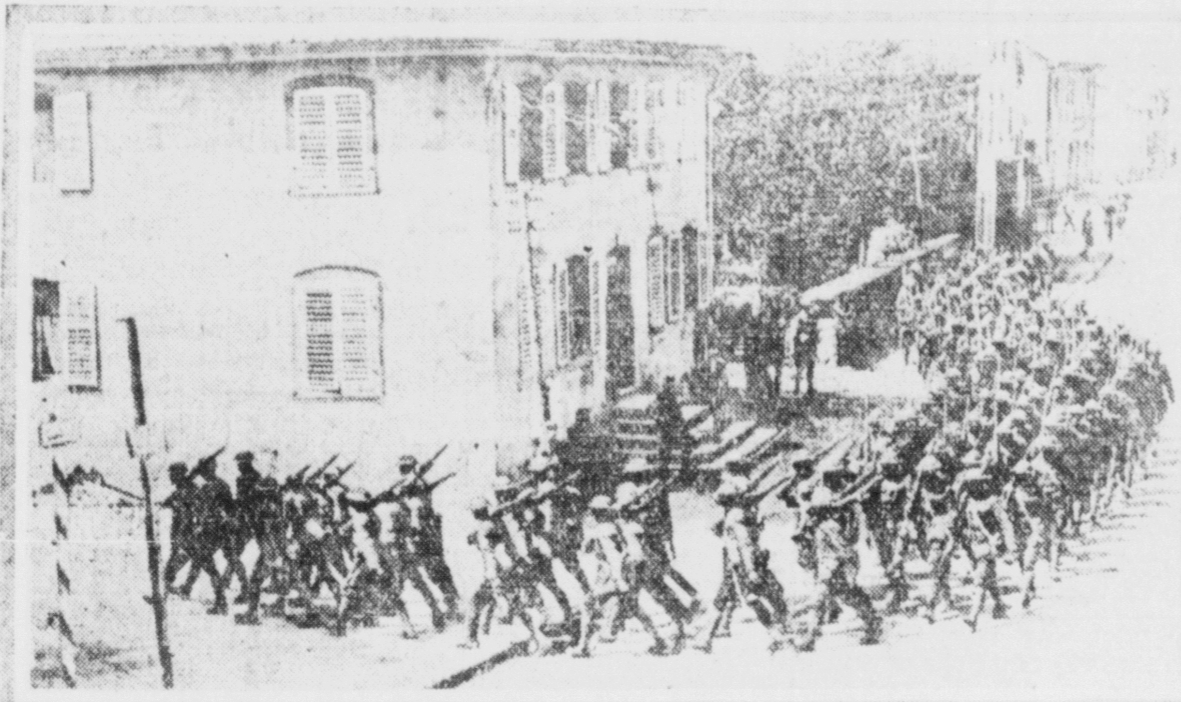

Progress southeast of Arras would seem to be the most important feature of the news from the great battle. Canadians, it appears, are slowly advancing along the Arras-Cambria road and are widening the gap in the famous line to which the Germans retired 18 months ago.

It seems that any great additional British success in this region may shatter Germany's hopes of conducting a defensive campaign along this front to which it is probable the Germans are now hastily withdrawing.

There has been no further infantry fighting along the Velse, although the American artillery is shelling the enemy positions heavily.

The Germans' claim of the capture of 250 Americans on Wednesday is denied by the Americans who have only a few men missing.

Since the beginning of the offensive in Picardy French troops have made the greatest advance. From Castel, on the Aisne river, to Bethencourt, on the Somme, the French have moved forward almost 25 miles.

The Hindenburg line is at St. Quentin, 15 miles due east. St. Quentin is 470 miles from Berlin and 192 miles west of Comblenz on the Rhine.

American troops east of Luneville are nearest of the allied forces to Berlin, which is 400 miles north-northeast as the crow flies. In southern Alsace the Americans are 18 miles from the Rhine.

Friday's casualty lists contain a total of 250 names, of which 226 are army and 24 are marine corps. Fourteen Ohioans are included in the casualties.

The army lists are divided: Killed in action, 101; missing in action, 23; wounded severely, 58; died of accident, 3; died of disease, 6; wounded degree undetermined, 23; died of wounds, 12.

Marine Corps: Killed in action, 9; died of wounds, 1; wounded severely, 7; missing in action, 7.

OBSTACLES IN PATH OF DRAFT LAW

(By Associated Press Dispatch)

Washington, August 30.—Unexpected obstacles developed today in the path through Congress of the man power bill extending the army draft to men of 18 to 45, but leaders proceeded in full confidence of having the measure in President Wilson's hands before night.

Criticism of the draft adopted yesterday in the House began in the Senate almost immediately after the bill was received. Necessity for legislation to supplement the bill's provision for allotting homesteads to men under 21 and criticism from Republicans of a published article regarding the war department's educational program, furnished subjects for debate.

SUNDAY NIGHT UNION CHILDREN'S SERVICE

The Sunday automobile ruling has necessitated one important change in the program for the Sunday night Union services on the Court House lawn—the substituting of an Orchestra for the Washington band, which has been such a big factor in the success of the Union meetings.

Owing to the fact that a number of the band boys live in the country and have no means of reaching town save by means of autos, it will be impossible to assemble the band.

The members of the band have shown splendid spirit in giving their best efforts to these meetings and the public has realized the fact with appreciation. It is gratifying that Washington has a band of such calibre and readiness to respond to calls.

The Orchestra offers the best possible substitute. It will be in charge of Mr. James Whelpley and Miss Mazie Kessler and will add greatly to the evening's program. Miss Gardner will be in charge of mixed choruses.

Being Children's Night all the Sunday Schools will attend in a body and each one will sing a chorus in response to roll call. Mrs. Geo. B. Franklin has promised to tell the children a story and one of the ministers will preach a short children's sermon.

These pictures were photographed by official government camera men, sent with the armies for that purpose by the Committee on Public Information and are the first of the new government feature films to be shown here.

The picture deals with "Our Boys" in Paris on July 4th, as they celebrated the day, after having been turned over to France by General Pershing.

They clean up Paris and form in a never to be forgotten parade on the newly dedicated "President Wilson" Avenue.

The Wonderland management has been told that it is possible to see some of our own home boys in this picture.

A German pay book, taken from a Hun who will never need it again. A glass plate from a French home which had been wrecked by shell fire and abandoned. A testament or rather the remnants of a testament, three machine gun bullets having almost reduced it to scraps as they killed the American who owned it. ## HONOR IS PAID TO NOTED MISSIONARY

(Associated Press Correspondence)
Yokohama, Japan, August 15.—The educational world of Japan paid honor to the memory of Miss Julia Neilson Crosby, an American missionary who died recently at the age of 84.

Miss Crosby, who was born in New York City, was one of the first woman missionaries to come to the country. Her first visit here was in 1871. Three years later she assumed the management of the first missionary school for girls established in Japan, the institution now known as the Doremus School. Miss Crosby's entire life was one of devotion to the education of women in Japan. The Japanese government had recognized her achievements for Japanese womanhood by conferring upon her the order of the Blue Ribbon.

SOLDIERS' LETTERS

Somewhere in France,
July 15th, 1918.

Dear Mother:
Just another little note this evening to let you know that I "still am" and am still bumping along as usual. Everything is running lovely "over here"—at least nice and lovely in this "part of over here."
This was another wonderful day—pay day. A day that most of the fellows have been looking forward to with quite a little eagerness. However, I had risked and lost none in any games and was faring very well. Most of the fellows are up town this evening. I made an appointment with myself to stay "at home" this evening.

Excepting that very little has happened since writing last; I am still enjoying the very best of health and I am still gaining. I can safely say I am heavier than I ever was.
I am glad to hear that the crops are doing so well. You know that means a great deal to any country. Here's hoping that the bumper crops of 1917 will be beaten by "bumpier" ones of 1918. Hay is being cut here, too. Wheat is ready, too, it seems to me. Perhaps they let it get ripper when the fields are smaller and the method of harvesting different.

I am sorry I cannot be there to help you and to enjoy the things of home, but just at present it would be very inconvenient for me to come for a visit even.

I am faring fine here. The separation from home is really the only thing against this life. I could not be satisfied to live anywhere else than in the service or in training somewhere at this time. We can only work, hope and pray that this war may soon be brought to a successful end and that the families now broken may be restored again. But do not worry about me, now. If I were ever in good shape in any way it is now. Try to see the matter in a little different light. Keep everything as cheerful as possible. That is all I ask. Is it too much? We might as well enjoy while enjoying is good. I cannot help but feel confident that this will all be settled before a great while.

I am hoping that Allen still holds his place where he now is. Anyone working as he is doing as patriotic service as is possible for one to do. One has only to come over here to appreciate the fact. I probably would have been of as much use but I was in no way indispensable. It seems to me that he is.

My light is getting dim. I am located on the third floor but the lights go out when the sun fades away, not a bad summer time arrangement with the owner when I leased it for when the sun has gone that far it is time for old men to be in bed.

Give my love to all.

Poetry For Today

THE MAPLE LEAF

'Tis never the need of tears for you!
 You went as you wished to go—
 When the skies of France were April blue
 As the northern spring your boyhood knew—
 With your forehead toward the foe!

Under the rim of the red barrage
 Where the tall colonials came
 You found the Grail of your questing lad—
 And your soldier-soul was only glad
 In the midst of mortal flame!

'Tis never the need of tears for you!
 Nor the wistful words of grief!
 For death—ah, hush to the heart of me!
 But bound with the golden fleur-de-lis
 The bronze of the maple leaf!

For death, who reaps for the shining sheaf
 Of the symbols which are best,
 But stooped, in a splendor breathless—
 —brief
 To seek the sign of the maple leaf,
 Which I wear against my breast!

'Tis never the need of tears for you
 With your face set toward the foe,
 While the clear colonial bugles blew
 Your last charge, lad—for your last adieu!

You went as you wished to go!
 —Kadra Maysi, in the Art World
 "The maple leaf is Canada's emblem."

The Gasoline Order

The national government, through the fuel administration has asked that pleasure riding, in automobiles, on Sunday be stopped for the time at least.

The reason announced for the issuing of the request is to reduce the consumption of gasoline, thereby serving more than one good purpose.

Well, that request is all right, and there will be little or no fault found with the government for making it.

We all understand that gasoline is a very necessary war commodity. It is a necessary fuel for motors of all kinds. Without gasoline the tanks, great and small, with which such marvelous successes are being achieved on the western front, would be valueless. Without gasoline, the great army transports would be unable to carry food and ammunition to the battle front, the great airplane fleets would be but a heap of inanimate and valueless junk, the submarine chasers would be put out of commission and a score of other vital war activities would be paralyzed in the war zones, to say nothing of vital industry at home.

Then too, a reduction in the quantity of gasoline consumed will relieve the demand on transportation lines increasing vastly the ability to transport troops and war necessities. Then too, there are, we must presume, a number of other sufficient reasons for the request which are not apparent to us who are not in direct touch with the war activities.

Now it is a request, but that request will be so universally observed that public opinion will restrain any one, if there be any one, unpatriotic enough to attempt ignoring it or too harshly question its wisdom.

It's all right any way. It will be nice to remain in the quiet home and enjoy our own family and friends during an old fashioned observance of Sunday.

A Future Problem

One of the future problems which we have been giving considerable attention during the last four years and which, as it grows nearer, is given more consideration, is what disposition will the allies make of the Kaiser and the war lords.

Napoleon was exiled to St. Helena after the collapse of his military machine, but Napoleon committed no such monstrous crimes against humanity as the war lords of Germany have committed.

We are not certain that the code of international law contains any express provisions for the punishment of those guilty of violating its provisions, but it certainly, impliedly, vests, in the nations framing the international code, power to deal with executives who violate its express provisions.

The Kaiser and the war lords have not only violated international law by overriding solemn treaty obligations, but they have resorted to forbidden and barbarous methods of warfare, the use of poison gas, bombing civilian sections and hospital areas, piracy on the high seas and so on through every form of deliberate murder.

It seems that about the best way to dispose of the Hun leaders would be to bring them before an international court under indictment and, upon proof of guilt, exact the penalty for deliberate murder.

Congressmen Barred

British army commanders, according to news reports from the front, have refused permission to at least two congressmen to visit the front lines.

We must presume, and do, until the contrary is established, that the reports are true. If they are erroneous we regret it because there are congressmen who should be barred from the fighting front. There are congressmen, unfortunately, who talk entirely too much for their own and the country's good. They do that at home, and it is certain, that under the excitement incident to a visit to the fighting front, their chatter would be much increased.

We can't just exactly see why congressmen, especially the smaller caliber ones, should be "touring" the battle zones at this time any way. They are certainly incapable of giving any advice worth while to the allied commanders, and they are almost as certain to undertake to do so and, worst of all, to criticize the army operations, after a visit to the front, just to show their wisdom and prove that they had visited the front.

Some of our congressmen have very little excuse for being in congress anyway, and absolutely no excuse for journeying into localities where their capacity for damage is far greater than it is in Washington where they are, in a measure, under the eye of the leaders.

If America can't keep congressmen, who have no business at the battle front, at home, it is fine that Great Britain has the courage to keep them away from the front.

Social and Personal

Though big weddings are fewer nowadays, our interest in weddings seems to be greater, because usually the bride-groom is in uniform and the girl in question is a war bride.

There are many innovations in the weddings that occur nowadays, says the Washington Evening Star. Custom in that regard has changed because of the war, and we countenance and encourage things that we would once have considered most unconventional. The whole marrying business is rushed through in very short order. First meeting, courtship, engagement, wedding and honeymoon sometimes do not occupy more than two or three weeks, and no one whispers that little adage about hasty marriages and leisurely repentance, or feels that more deliberation might have been dignified. Mothers are indulgent to the soldier bridegroom, and give up many of the cherished details of a full-fledged wedding in order that he may go to the front having the satisfaction of leaving a bride rather than a fiancée. Sometimes wedding invitations are sent out by telephone. There is nothing unusual in receiving a call from a friend something like this: "Oh, hello! Yes it is rather warm, I just called to ask you whether you could drop in tomorrow at about 4. Alice is going to be married. Yes, Capt. Hawkins. He's ordered away in a week, so we thought it would be best."

And dressmakers receive over night orders for bridal costumes, and full bridesmaids' sets to boot. In fact, there are some dressmakers now who have nearly finished bride-dresses and bridesmaids' dresses in sets, ready waiting such orders, and they look upon the order to get such a consignment ready overnight as most important war work. For, though weddings are hurried and guests are invited without the form of an engraved invitation, the ceremonies are not usually very much less elaborate in detail.

In England, for these hurried war weddings—for even when the engagement is of fair duration one never knows just when the bridegroom can be released from the front until he gets home—invitations are often announced in the columns of the daily papers. "Friends and relatives" are requested to go to the church at a certain hour, "and afterward to 70 Crescent Terrace," or wherever the bride happen to live.

The Alpha Chi Red Cross benefit dance at the K. of P. hall Thursday night was conducted on the same elaborate scale as the Mid-Summer dance and proved as much of a social success, altho the attendance could hardly be expected as large as that of Fair week. However, seventy couples found the wonderful music of Parker's Orchestra so full of inspiration and encored it repeatedly. The music was hidden behind a latticed screen, trellised with vines and baskets of golden rod were effectively placed.

Mrs. Fuller Hess, Mrs. C. H. Griffin and Mrs. G. L. Spragg assisted, representing the Red Cross.

Among out of town guests attending were: Misses Ruth Donovan, Boston, Mass.; Marguerite McDonald Springfield; Thelma Godman, Chillicothe; Miriam Ruggles, Helen Ben-

RED CROSS ACTIVITIES

Salary Increase Should Boom Nurse Enlistment

Pay of nurses, enrolled by the American Red Cross for military service, has been raised to $75 a month for over seas duty and to $60 a month for duty at hospitals at American camps and cantonments.

Announcement of the increase has just been received at Lake Division Red Cross headquarters. Heretofore $60 a month was paid to nurses sent overseas and $50 a month to those kept at military work this side the Atlantic.

Miss Anna Gladwin, acting director of nursing at Division headquarters, says that the increase in pay should result in the enrollment of many more nurses.

"There are many nurses who have wanted to enroll with the Red Cross and could not because of the low pay and family obligations," Miss Gladwin says.

"This new scale provides salaries which are about on the same level with those paid in hospitals."

"In addition, the government provides the nurses with the same War Risk Insurance as is provided soldiers and sailors."

Women of Cheerful Disposition For Hospital Hut Service Abroad

Several hundred American women, whose dispositions are of the cheerful variety, are wanted for work in the Red Cross hospital huts in France. The "cheerful disposition" proposition is an essential requisite, for the reason that their duty will be to spread cheer among the boys who are convalescing after wounds received on the battlefield or from attacks of illness.

The Bureau of Personnel of the American Red Cross already has enrolled 150 of these workers, while 443 is the number estimated as necessary to be supplied before the first of January, 1919. The Red Cross Commissioner to France, in a cablegram calling for these hospital hut workers, specifying some of the qualifications required, suggested that the women chosen should be those who are keen on entertainment. Lots of music, reading aloud, and all that sort of thing helps to make the recovery of wounded and sick soldier boys much quicker than otherwise would be the case. Every thing that keeps up spirits, and turns thoughts in a channel that prevents one of the bitterest of all ailments—homesickness—is a godsend.

No Lack of Good Cheer
The American Red Cross intends that there shall be no lack of entertainment and good cheer for the convalescent youth "over there," and it is particularly desired therefore that the call for hospital hut workers be complied with according to schedule. Those who volunteer for this service will be expected to remain abroad for at least a year. They will be provided with transportation to and from France and their living expenses, where required, will be paid while they are in the service.

There should be no mistaken notion that this hospital hut service is easy work, for it surely is not. Emergencies may arise which will make it necessary to call upon the workers for duties not on the program; for it is now an established rule of the Red Cross that all those accepting service abroad must hold themselves in readiness to accept any duty which is assigned to them. Only those who have strong constitution, and do not tire easily—and who still possess that never to be forgotten "cheerful disposition"—are fitted for enrollment in the hospital hut service.

Red Cross Allotment

In the Red Cross Allotment to enroll 27,000 graduate war nurses by January 1919 the number assigned to the Lake Division, comprising Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky, is 2,748. The percentage of quota obtained August 1st, 1918, was 43 percent. There are 1,543 nurses yet to enroll.

CURE IS FOUND FOR BAD TIME-KEEPING

(Associated Press Correspondence)

London, August 23.—The abandonment of the system of work before breakfast and adoption of the system of an eight o'clock start in one of the great Paisley cotton-thread factories, has resulted in the disappearance of bad time-keeping, a practical cessation of sickness among girls in the first hours of the morning when work started at six, better work being secured and maintained, and a scarcely noticeable reduction in the output.

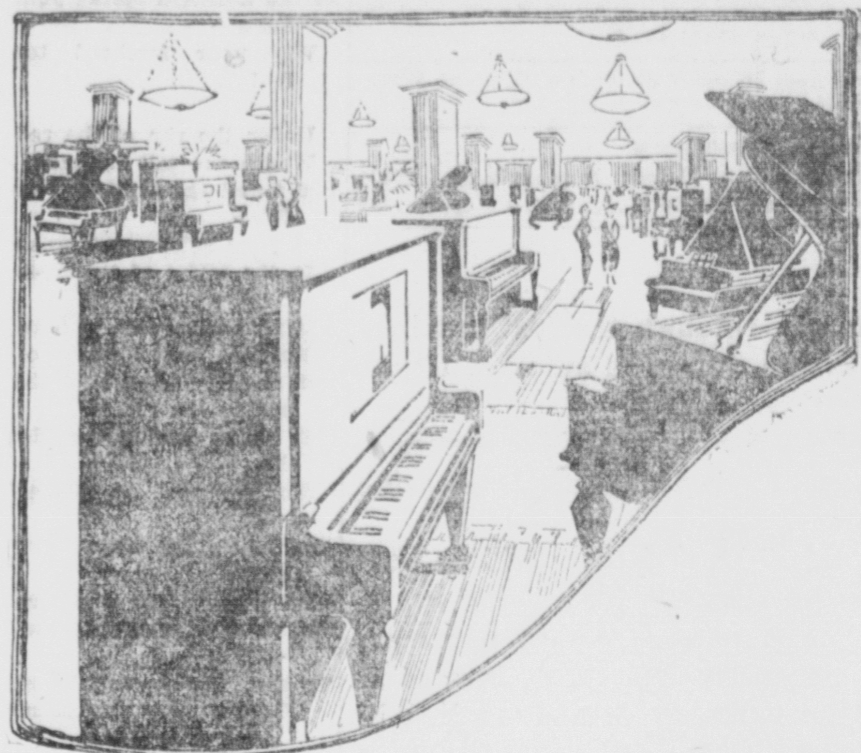

The boys in military service, far from home, are doubly appreciative of remembrances, at least that is the way one young soldier, Jack Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Trustin Allen of the Jeffersonville pike, felt when he received a shower of letters and cards on his recent birthday.

Private Allen is stationed at Kansas City, Mo., the Rahes' Branch Co. 14.

There has never been a time when a card or letter means as much to the boys as now when they can only come home on a "furlough."

COLLEGE STUDENTS STATUS IS FIXED UNDER NEW LAWS

In connection with the new draft regulations now being enacted by Congress, certain changes of vital importance are being made by the War Department in the rules to govern the Students' Army Training Corps. Of these the following have been approved for publication:

1. The new regulations for selective service have not annulled the Student Army Training Corps. They only confirm it and intensify its importance in providing trained and qualified young men to be moulded into the thousands of officers needed for the enlarged army. Every force in the country is being used to urge attendance at college this year as the highest form of patriotic duty.

2. Enlistment in the S. A. T. C. before the general military registration will not be possible. Students will register with their proper draft board. Shortly after the opening of college they will have the opportunity of being voluntarily inducted into service in the S. A. T. C., where they will be considered as members of the U. S. Army on furlough status until their order numbers are called. As soon as inducted they will receive and wear uniforms as previously announced, and will receive a private's pay $30 per month.

3. When order numbers are called, men are likely to be continued at college if reported by the president and the commandant as

(a) Proper material for officers in the line or staff departments or

(b) qualified to become technical experts in chemistry, physics, engineering, medicine, psychology, accounting, etc.

Such men, until ready for transfer to a Central Officers' Training Camp or to government technical service, will probably be classified as in active service, with board and lodging paid for by the government in addition to the $30 a month paid to the men.

4. Men whose order numbers are called and who are not recommended for continuance at college will be sent to non-commissioned officers' schools, to the nearest Depot Brigade, or in case they show some special technical or mechanical ability—to the detachments where men are trained for such work.

5. As men are drawn from the college their places will be taken by a new quota composed of inducted men from Special Training Detachments or drafted men from the Depot Brigades who have shown the natural ability requisite for officers but are not prepared for Central Officers' Training Camps.

6. Because of the earlier call for active service the training program will be more intensive than first proposed, with more time for drill and less choice of academic studies, especially for the older men whose call is near at hand. College work will have to be made practically continuous throughout the year, and the Summer Camp, as first announced, will be eliminated. College courses of military value will probably be begun at different periods during the year as new quotas of men are admitted.

These revised plans with the opportunity for high-class rational service they offer to the colleges, are the most important development that the Great War has yet brought to colleges. No high school graduate is now too poor to secure at least part of a college education, and that so organized and directed as to lead all really capable young men into highly responsible positions in the military service of the country.

Such is the announcement fixing the status of the college men—a mooted question until this time.

A WISE FRIEND'S NERV-WORTH TIP WORKS OUT WELL

Ends in Curing Headache When
Doctors and Other Medicines
All Failed.

Nerv-Worth has banished headaches and others aches and pains in thousands of cases. And in doing this it leaves not a trace of harm behind because in it there are no opiates, narcotics, coal-tar products, no habit-forming drugs. Read about this specific case of relief reported to the Nerv-Worth druggist at Gallipolis, O., by Mrs. S. A. Greenlee: "I have been troubled with my head for years and with all my doctoring I never have got any relief. At times my head hurt me so bad I would just think I could not live. So a friend told me what Nerv-Worth had done for her, so I got a bottle from the C. D. Kerr Drug Co., and it is helping me so much. I hope these few lines will help some other sufferer to try Nerv-Worth for it is surely a good medicine."

ISSUES WARNING TO HUSK HAULERS

Service Director Tracey has issued notice to those hauling husks and cobs from the canning factories that more care must be exercised by some haulers to prevent the husks and cobs from the canning plants from being scattered over the streets.

Some of the haulers, it is pointed out are careless about loading the husks, with the result that many are left where they will easily fall to the streets, not only littering them up and attracting flies, but rendering the streets dangerous by reason of the slippery husks and cobs.

Prompt observance of the request is expected.

HEAVY ELECTRICAL STORMS IN COUNTY

Several heavy electrical storms, accompanied by considerable rainfall, swept over various parts of Fayette county Friday morning, with the result that in some communities the rainfall was the heaviest in three months, and the long dry period has been definitely broken.

Washington shared with other parts of the county in the heavy rain, and during the showers about eight o'clock Friday morning a rainfall of about one-half inch was recorded.

The heaviest storm was between four and five o'clock, and swept over northern Fayette, particularly in the Jeffersonville neighborhood, where floods were temporarily flooded by the downpour. A great deal of lightning accompanied the rain, but no heavy damage resulted, although near South Solon the lightning is said to have destroyed a barn. The rain about eight o'clock was general over most of the county.

CARRIER PIGEON FOUND EXHAUSTED

Ray Miller, of N. North street Friday morning picked up a carrier pigeon on N. North street which apparently was exhausted, and which had two tags on its right leg. One of the tags, or bands, was brass and bore the number 36, the other band was silver and the number 824862 was upon it.

The bird has been taken to the home of the youth's grandfather, A. L. Goldsberry, where it is being cared for.

HE WON'T DROP DEAD ANY MORE

"My husband suffered terribly from stomach and liver trouble, which caused such bloating of gas as to seriously affect his heart. Doctors warned him that he might drop dead at any time from this trouble. A friend in Cleveland advised him to take May's Wonderful Remedy, and since taking it, 4 months ago he is feeling like a young man again. All his friends are surprised at his appearance." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. ## DECLARES JAPAN HAS SAME IDEALS

By Associated Press Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, O., August 29.—Japan has the same ideals as those to which America is dedicated, declared Tsunejuro Miyaoka of Yokohama in an address he delivered tonight before the annual meeting of the American Bar Association. "We stand for the rights of humanity," he added. Mr. Miyaoka formerly was Charge d' Affaires and counselor of the Japanese Embassy in Washington and is regarded as one of the prominent lawyers of Japan.

"In this great war," continued Mr. Miyaoka, "it is whispered here and there whether Japan has not misplaced herself in siding with the Allies against the Central Empires of Europe. When President Wilson declared that this was a war of democracy versus autocracy, manifestly he did not mean that this was a war of republicanism versus monarchism. The people of the United States are the last people on earth to deny to another people the right to choose for themselves that form of government which the latter thinks is best adapted to themselves. Is not Germany's denial to some of the unfortunate people under her sway of the right to choose their own sovereignty, one of the crimes which we hold her responsible? The United States went into the war because the German warfare against commerce was a challenge to all mankind. It is for the vindication of human right that this nation is stirred to the core."

APPLY MUCH STONE TO FAYETTE ROADS

The work of applying crushed stone and gravel to the highways of Fayette county has been going forward quite rapidly, recently, and a great many roads throughout the county have received attention, although in some instances the application has been far short of the amount desired.

At one point in eastern Fayette the gravel has been applied to virtually the entire width of the road at one point, over a width some 18 to 20 feet.

As usual the material is simply applied and left to the tender mercies of passing vehicles to do the rolling and convert the loose material into a hard, durable surface.

During the remainder of the summer and fall thousands of loads of material will be added to the roads, if the material is obtainable.

Next year, according to a statement recently issued by the government, all road work requiring material transported by railroad must be submitted to the government for approval. In this way unnecessary road work will be held down to a minimum and only the necessary work will be permitted.
